

Booth Centennial wins OHA Green Energy Award

Booth Centennial Healthcare Linen Services was honoured with the Green Health Care Award for Energy Efficiency by the Ontario Hospital Association. The award, shown above with Maria Ash, director of corporate services, and Joe Grummel, manager, was for savings of water and utilities achieved at the tunnel washers.

Shown also (left) is Kevin Watson, one of the inventors of a system that recycled water from tunnel washer presses, captured the heat, removed the lint and recycled it back to the first flush compartment. It was this invention that was largely responsible for the award.
